India have one year to deal with elephant in the room

Sharath Kamal. PTI

Tough draw for India at Asian TT

NEW DELHI: Achanta Sharath Kamal and G Sathyan face a tough draw at the ITTF-ATTU Asian Cup Tournament beginning Thursday in Bangkok. World No 44 Sharath will run into Chinese Taipei's Chuang Chih-Yuan, ranked No 16, while world No 39 Sathyan will play 26th-ranked Japanese Yukiya Uda.

More golds for India in shooting

NEW DELHI: India swept all the four gold medals on offer for the second day running at the Asian Airgun Championship in Daegu, Korea. Rhythm Sangwan took the 10m air pistol gold while Manu Bhaker won the junior event. India also won the men's team gold in senior and junior categories.

Patna, Thalaivas tie in Pro Kabaddi

PUNE: Patna Pirates and Tamil Thalaivas played out a thrilling 33-33 tie at the Pro Kabaddi League here on Wednesday. While raider Narendra emerged as the best player for the Thalaivas with 16 points, raider Sachin notched 14 points for the Pirates. The two sides were locked at 5-5 in the fifth minute. However, the Thalaivas tackled Sachin, soon after, and inched ahead.

Now that Kapil Dev has got the 'C' word out there with respect to the Indian cricket team, it is as if the doors have opened and the elephant has been let out of the room. Talking to ABP News after India's capitulation versus England in the T20 World Cup semi-final, Kapil was emphatic: "I will not go into the details and slam them because these are the same players who have got us a lot of respect in the past, but yes, we can call them chokers. That's okay. There is no denying it—after coming so close, they choke."

Given where we are at this point, being called chokers is actually okay. Exactly a year from now, the 2023 ICC World Cup being held across India will be heading towards its knock out rounds. The final is on November 26 and the consensus is pretty definitive—India had better be there. Going by what has transpired in the recent past, the prospects appear iffy. In the ten seasons after India claimed its last piece of ICC silverware—the 2013 Champions Trophy—we've made two finals (2014 T20 World Cup and 2017 Champions Trophy) and four semi-finals—two in 50-over World Cups and two in the T20 version.

Yes, the 50-over game is a different brew and home advantage will be an absolute bonus, but all that is working on the assumption that things have stayed the same since the last time we held an ICC event—the 2016 T20 World Cup. While T20 has evolved into a separate arm of the game, if not an entirely different game, its aftereffects continue to ripple across formats. What India needs most is a truthful post mortem into why they cannot get across the line. In T20s, the answers are simple and evident enough: a tepid pace at the top of the batting and not enough all-round options in the line-up are fixable problems. If you are willing to accept that there are players who should not feature in your next T20 World Cup and must start saying the goodbyes right away.

India crashed out of the T20 World Cup in Australia with a 10-wicket loss to England in the semis. AFP

The 50-over format may at this point appear kinder and more manageable keeping in mind the time available to batters and familiarity with conditions, but that game has also moved up a notch in terms of requiring a dynamism in batting.

India cannot be playing the same old game they have played. In the last four years, England have owned two world white-ball titles because, among other things, they have accelerated the pace of batting. From the 2015 World Cup onwards, England have topped the charts of 50-over scoring rates and with it, win/loss ratios. They have won 80 of their 125 ODIs, scoring at 6.27 runs an over, and made one third of 350+ scores (19 out of 63) in 50 overs.

England have cleaned out two world titles and India none. India's run-rate in this time has been 5.80 with eight 350 scores. To believe nobody else has taken note and everything will be evened out due to home advantage plus wall-to-wall chest-thumping TV promos is false bravado.

So, how about we address that choking business? There are dissertations written on the subject and how to overturn the situation. Malcolm Gladwell's 2000 New Yorker article differentiating between choking and panicking was put into cricketing context by Aakash Chopra on ESPNcricinfo in 2011. Gladwell says, "Choking is thinking too much, panicking is thinking too little. Choking is about loss of instinct. Panic is reversion to instinct. They may look the same but they are worlds apart."

The panicked cricketer hits out, flails, unconcerned about the mistakes being made, trying to extract himself from the crisis. The one who chokes tries too carefully to be perfect, to knuckle down so as to not make the mistake. What India were trying to do setting a total for England in the T20 World Cup semi-final. At the heart of the spiral of confusion that the athlete/team finds himself/inself in is the occasion, Gladwell saying, "Choking requires us to concern ourselves less with the performer and more with the situation in which the performance occurs."

Visa cleared, Djokovic set to play Australian Open

Agencies

sportsdesk@hindustantimes.com

TURIN: Novak Djokovic confirmed on Wednesday he has received a visa to travel to Melbourne to play in the 2023 Australian Open, after he was deported last January over his vaccine status.

"I was very happy to receive the news yesterday. It was a relief," the Serbian said after beating Andrey Rublev in the ATP Finals in Turin.

On Tuesday Australian media reported that the government had decided to grant the unvaccinated Serbian a visa, overturning a three-year ban after his ejection from the country.

This year's championship was overshadowed by nine-time Australian Open champion Djokovic being put on a plane on the eve of the contest after a high-stakes legal battle over his visa status.

Australia have lifted the requirement for visitors to show proof of Covid vaccination, and the three-year ban can be overturned at the discretion of Prime Minister Anthony Albanese's centre-left government, which is different to the conservative coalition in power when he was kicked out.

Straight sets win

Djokovic was speaking after securing a spot in the semi-finals of the season-ending Finals with a 6-4, 6-1 win over Rublev, his second straight sets victory in as many matches.

Having beaten Stefanos Tsitsipas in his first Red Group match on Monday, the Serb is guaranteed a spot in the last four regardless of his result on Friday against Daniil Medvedev.

After the first nine games went with serve, Djokovic switched on the afterburners to outclass Rublev.

Rublev capitulated when serving to stay in the opener, losing the set as Djokovic thumped a backhand return winner.

The second set was a non-event as five-time champion Djokovic roared to victory in little more than an hour. "I played one of my best matches of the year. I found the right attitude and the right game and once I won the first set his energy went down," he said.

NSFs face tricky test for votes

HT Correspondent

sportsdesk@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: The National Sports Federations (NSFs) must ensure to put forth one male and one female representative in order to avail their two votes at the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) elections to be held on December 10, according to the election notification issued by returning officer Umesh Sinha on Wednesday.

During the IOA Special General Meeting on November 10, where the amended IOA constitution was adopted, NSFs expressed an inability to nominate female representatives.

As per the schedule of the election announced on Wednesday, the last date for receiving the names for the electoral college from affiliated member units is November 20.

The dates for submission of nomination papers (in person) is November 25-27. The final list of contesting candidates after the withdrawal of names is December 4. The election to the IOA Executive Council will be held on December 10 followed by the declaration of results on the same day.

Only those NSFs, whose sports are included in the Olympic programme/Asian Games/CWG will be entitled to send two representatives each with one vote. Prior to the elections, the IOA will ratify the incorporation of sportspersons of outstanding merit (SOMs) into the General Assembly.

The crypt of honour underneath Our Lady of Lourdes Church

Burying prominent figures underneath church floors has been a standard practice for centuries. Anyone attending a liturgy at Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Tiruchi, for instance, might find themselves seated over the grave of the Jesuits.

The Gothic-style church, constructed between 1895 and 1903, presents a fascinating study of contrasting styles for a connoisseur of architecture as it is a replica of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Hautes-Pyrénées, France. The church is situated on the campus of St. Joseph's College (Autonomous), which was established in 1844 and is maintained by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus (The Jesuits).

A rare honour

The church has many intriguing spiritual, cultural, and architectural facets. One of the unique attractions is the crypt which lies underneath the high altar. The 'U' shaped structure displays the mason's craftsmanship and offers an astounding link to the distant past.

Over 100 deceased priests are buried in the crypt, which has long served as the resting place for Jesuit priests who died in the city. Dhanam Savarimuthu, a master mason who built the church, was given a burial here in appreciation of his work.

"This honour is usually reserved for the priests who have served the Jesuit institutions and mission in the area," Fr. Thangadurai, house minister of the Jesuit Residence, told The Hindu.

The church is one of the oldest to house a crypt built with high ceilings. "Jesuits are among the congregations that still observe the tradition of burial in the underground crypt," said Fr. Selvaraj, former parish priest of the church.

The resting place: The crypt is designed to store casketed remains horizontally, one on top of the other. The first person buried in the crypt was Fr. Berlendis, a priest at the church. M. SRINATH

Many of the figures were famous at the time, but are now mostly forgotten. "The first person buried in the crypt was Fr. Berlendis, a priest at the church, and Fr. R. Rajarathinam, the former principal of the college, was the last person to be interred in the crypt, in 2021," he added.

According to the Jesuits, the first crypts came out of ancient Christianity; they were first built in

Over 100 deceased priests are buried in the crypt, which has long served as the resting place for Jesuit priests who died in the city

Greece and Italy as the resting places for saints, priests, martyrs, and royals deemed worthy of entombment in a church. The popularity of these underground crypts spread along with Christianity throughout early Europe, and they began to be used not only for burials but also for the storage of religious relics.

"Crypts connect us spiritually to those first Christians who worshipped God underground in the catacombs, entrusting to God the remains of their beloved dead. It is a beautiful tradition in the Catholic church, one that continues to have a great significance nearly 2,000 years later," Fr. Selvaraj added.

A tour inside the dimly lit basement reveals the church's history and the custom of crypt burial. The door that leads to the crypt is located just on the back side of the church near the stairway that leads to the altar. The crypt is designed to store casketed remains horizontally, one on top of the other. They are then sealed and covered with granite stone inscribed with the name, age, as well as dates of birth and death of the deceased outside the wall.

"Following a memorial service, the casket will be interred into the crypt, with a final prayer surrounded by the kith and kin of the dead," said Fr. Thangadurai.

Old coffins removed

In recent decades, owing to space crunch, most of the old coffins have been removed and replaced with new arrivals. "Currently, we have room for two more bodies. The headstones of the removed coffins were placed against a wall beside the church to honour the deceased," he added.

The crypt remains closed to members of the public and is accessed when someone needs to be buried. "Since it's over 120 years old, people don't even know that there is a crypt beneath the church," said Fr. Marivalan, parish priest.

In remembrance of the departed souls, a Holy Mass would be celebrated at the church and the crypt will be blessed once a year on All Souls' Day (November 2), a day of prayer and remembrance of the faithful departed. "Last year, the area was inundated owing to heavy rain. We intend to restore the crypt as it is old," he added. The Jesuits are considering educational tours to the crypt after the renovation.
